Executive Summary

N992NA · APR-SAMPLE-N992NA

3 EXPOSURE FOUND	1 NO PUBLIC EXPOSURE FOUND	0 NOT DETERMINED	1 NOT APPLICABLE
--	--	--	--

3 of 5 public-exposure checks located positive public evidence. A result of no public exposure found means only that the stated sources were checked without locating evidence.

PRIORITY ACTION

Review the FAA N-number inquiry at <https://registry.faa.gov/aircraftinquiry/> and consider the FAA ownership-data withholding process.

Exposure found

Positive public evidence of exposure was located.

No public exposure found

The stated check completed and located no public evidence. This does not establish protection.

Not determined

Available evidence is insufficient for a positive determination.

Not applicable

The public-exposure check does not apply to this aircraft.

Identities reviewed: N992NA (current), ICAO ADDB3E. Observation window: 2026-06-29 to 2026-07-28.

03 Public tracker page exposure

EXPOSURE FOUND

Static exact-identity tracker or registry pages were publicly indexed on 2 providers for 1 aircraft identity. The separate 30-day permanent-identity check did not observe either aircraft identity. This finding therefore confirms public indexing only, not current or live flight visibility.

Exposure found refers to the public page and aircraft-identity association. It does not mean that current flights, positions, or flight history were visible.	Review the indexed pages for stale identity information. If future live flight display is a concern, evaluate LADD for participating tracking vendors.

04 ADS-B permanent-identity broadcast

NO PUBLIC EXPOSURE FOUND

Neither the current nor former permanent ICAO identity was observed in the completed 30-day window. Non-observation may reflect an inactive or stored aircraft, not a privacy control.

Method and boundaries

How to read this report

This is a public-exposure assessment, not a score. Exposure found requires positive public evidence. No public exposure found means only that the stated check completed without locating public evidence. Failure to observe an aircraft is not proof that the aircraft is protected.

Research sequence

1. Check the current and former N-numbers against the FAA releasable database.
2. Review public state-registry ownership linkage without reproducing third-party personal names or addresses.
3. Check exact-identity pages on defined public flight-tracking sources.
4. Check current and former registry-derived ICAO identities across the stated observation window.
5. Check exact-identity pages on JetPhotos, Planespotters, and a bounded whole-web query using fixed match rules.
6. Generate all findings from fixed templates populated by structured results. No generative AI creates or edits report copy.

Report boundaries

The report does not provide routes, coordinates, movement history, legal advice, title assurance, or a comprehensive operational-security assessment. Public sources can be incomplete, stale, or unavailable.

Evidence standard

Every finding identifies its source, access type, and date. Not observed is not treated as protected. Not determined is used when a check is unavailable, incomplete, or ambiguous.

Recommended remediations

CARES · FAA ownership-data withholding

Releasable FAA owner data was located for an aircraft identity.

LADD · Evaluate Limiting Aircraft Data Displayed

A static tracker or registry page was indexed for an aircraft identity. This does not establish current live-flight visibility.
